

Rosie Huntington-Whiteley on Girl Power and Gorgeous Hair

Before Rosie Huntington-Whiteley was a bona fide bombshell beloved by designers like Olivier Rousteing and megabrands such as Burberry and Victoria's Secret, she was an invisible intern. The kicker? She was making coffee at a modeling agency. Read on for her best tips on reaching your goals, and, of course, achieving sexy hair.

You are a great career adviser, now please be our beauty adviser. What makeup products do you love?

"For me, good skin is where makeup starts. I'm a big believer in wearing SPF every day. For my skin-care products, I use iS CLINICAL®. They have changed my skin—it's remarkable. It's slightly expensive, but I invest in my complexion because it's important for my work."

www.innovativeskincare.com